FXSIMPLIFIER.COM and FX Simplifier are the property of Wealth Generators, LLC. Wealth Generators LLC is a publisher of financial research and information. Wealth Generators is exempt from registration under the U.S. Securities Investment Advisers Act of 1940. This exemption stipulates: a publisher of any bona fide newspaper, news column, newsletter, news magazine, or business or financial publication or service, whether communicated in hard copy form, or by electronic means, or otherwise, that does not consist of the rendering of advice on the basis of the specific investment situation of each client.

4. Publishers. Publishers are excluded from the Act, but only if a publication:
 - (i) provides only impersonal advice (i.e., advice not tailored to the individual needs of a specific client);
 - (ii) is "bona fide," (containing disinterested commentary and analysis rather than promotional material disseminated by someone touting particular securities); and
 - (iii) is of general and regular circulation (rather than issued from time to time in response to episodic market activity).

Wealth Generators issues trade strategy signals, alerts and analysis that are sent to subscribing members via email, mobile app, automated signals and website member access. There is no customization, review or consultation of the member's personal financial objectives, situation or need. The member is free to act or not to act on the information provided.

All users of Wealth Generators products and services accept that any trade they make is their own decision and they bear the full liability of any decisions they make. They may cancel their subscription at any time. Prior to cancelling your subscription with Wealth Generators, you must de-activate the FX Simplifier and remove your MT4 account. Once we receive your cancellation, if you have not deactivated your FX Simplifier we will do so automatically. Any pending or open trades will be cancelled and closed. Active trades will be closed immediately as a market order. Any loss or gain associated with the closing and cancellation is the responsibility of the subscriber.

Users are instructed to practice trade in a virtual account until they are comfortable with their trading practice. A user should refer to the Terms and Conditions and Full Disclaimer included with all of the Wealth Generators products.
